

Lillingstone Careers: Healthcare Science

A lecture by Kip Heath, Clinical Scientist and Science Communicator

Wednesday 30th April 2025, 4.30pm - 5.30pm

(Tea and coffee served from 4.15pm)

Lillingstone Trust Community Laboratory

Discovery Centre, Royal Latin School, Buckingham, MK18 1AX

Are you considering a career in healthcare science? If you would like to find out more information about how to do this and what this would entail, please book a place on our Lillingstone Lecture, which will be delivered by Kip Heath.

Kip Heath left school to join the NHS on a four-year training programme that is now the Level 6 Healthcare Science Practitioner degree apprenticeship. Specialising in microbiology, she is registered with the HCPC as both a biomedical scientist and a clinical scientist. She has worked across the UK with a deployment to Sierra Leone during the West African Ebola outbreak.

She has held local, regional, and national leadership roles and has a passion for apprenticeships. Outside of her role in healthcare, Kip is a professional science communicator and occasional stand up comedian.

Entry to these talks is free to all members of the local community. For further details, or to book a place, please email Lucy Beckett at lbeckett@royallatin.org
